

If Your Dominant Color is Green, You're the "Analyzer"

You often make the right decision – because you look at the situation from all angles before you decide. You like lots of information and you're skilled at analyzing data. You like rules to make sense and you value competence in yourself and in others.

You need challenge, autonomy, truth, accuracy time, and opportunities to ask questions.

You're frustrated by lack of control, lack of independence, incompetence, overly emotional displays, limited chances to use and show what you know, small talk, social functions with no higher purpose, subjective decisions that don't make sense, illogical decisions, and lack of time to gather facts before you complete a task.

In school you like to learn about all kinds of things and come up with new ideas. If there's a problem, you are the best person to solve it.

With friends you are close to people who have the same interests. You sometimes keep to yourself because you like your privacy.

At home you spend a lot of time just thinking. You like learning things from TV shows about science and nature.
